While our design philosophy pays respect to the Finnish design's classic principles of timeless simplicity and functionality, the defining characteristic for Poiat are its lasting human-centric spaces and furniture, where aesthetics are the source of satisfaction and well-being.

Eetos Collection

Eetos collection was originally designed for a residence in the building with hundreds of stories to tell: a building that had been destroyed in the second world war and rebuilt in the 1950's, combining the simplicity and functionality of mid-century style with the curved forms of art nouveau in the most interesting way.

An architectural figure with organic, decorative shapes, Eetos creates an impression of sturdiness without being too hefty. The Eetos collection is tacit and reliable – designed to play a part in a historical play, but never the leading role.

Lavitta Collection

Drawing its influence from the traditional rugged Finnish outdoor furniture, the award-winning Lavitta Collection is the first furniture collection designed by Poiat.

The novel interpretation of the countryside classics creates a fascinating contradiction where rational practicality merges with a sophisticated tactile and visual appeal.

Evolo Collection

Evolo collection caters for ergonomics and aesthetics. The initial idea was born when a historical town hall was in need of conference tables with a calming effect to a spacious lecture hall. Later on Evolo evolved to a collection consisting of both a conference table and a desk.

The Evolo Lift desk is an exclusive piece of the collection with adjustable height. Contemporary functionality does not compromise aesthetics, as the unique design of the wooden pedestal keeps the mechanism hidden inside. The versatile Evolo Lift is designed primarily as a singular desk but a larger version can also serve as a meeting room table.

Unio Collection

The Unio Collection began a new chapter for Piat by focusing on new forms and textures. The concept was born out of the designer's interest in studying the relationship between wood and soft furniture.

The shape and materials of the Unio armchair and sofas tell about its different characteristics. The secure and upright look invites one to sit on it with confidence, while the tactility of textiles and round shapes suggest its sophisticated comfort.

The collection consists of four different pieces: a two and a three- seater sofa, armchair and a curved sofa.

Aqueduct Collection

The Aqueduct collection draws its undulating inspiration from ancient Rome. The grand arches of the watercourse systems, called aqueducts, were a showpiece of Roman architecture and engineering. By also embracing the contemporary influences of Nordic design, the designers found a perfect balance between traditional and modern design for the sofas.

The numerous configurations and features create intriguing details to Aqueduct sofas. The two plinth base options change its look from classical to modern while the integrated side table with a marble top adds a subtle element of luxury.

Poeme Collection

Graceful and poetic, yet robust, describes what the Poeme Collection is about as the shelf derives its influences from many different aspects and sources.

The initial inspiration for it took off from the old Finnish wooden tools and the aesthetics of Japanese architecture, yet at the end of the design process the delicate and gentle outcome gave it its name of French origin.

The free-standing and modular structure enables the Poeme to serve as a bookshelf, a media console or a display cabinet.

Bastone Collection

The Bastone Collection is a line of display and storage furniture designed by the master cabinet maker and designer Antrei Hartikainen for Poiat. Standing on the boundary between art and design, the collection showcases Hartikainen's interest in studying light and shadow and his appreciation of functional craftsmanship in his work.

The concept of Bastone collection derives from the dilemma between ornament and structure – the wooden dowel rods are an integral part of the structure but evidently also create an ornamental effect. As light enters through the gaps between the rods, the interior is revealed but still remains slightly concealed.

The symmetric form enables the Bastone to retain its aesthetic look no matter which angle one looks at and making an open space the most natural setting for it.

Fiori Sculpture

Fiori Collection

Designed by Poiat Studio's founders Timo Mikkonen and Antti Rouhunkoski in collaboration with the master cabinet maker and designer Antrei Hartikainen, the Fiori Collection is a set of tables and a floor sculpture.

The designers' shared idea was to create furniture that epitomises their appreciation of natural materials and the utility of beauty without the necessity of functional purpose.

As an exclusive realisation of craftsmanship and artistry, the larger tables are also available as a special limited edition that are adorned with hand-carved wooden flowers by Antrei Hartikainen.

Poiat

Poiat is a Helsinki-based multidisciplinary design studio known for its elegant interiors and unique furniture portfolio. The essence of the Poiat Furniture collection is in combining industrial manufacturing methods with highly detailed craftsmanship skills. Our mission is to build a holistic space where all furniture is an essential part of a carefully considered furniture landscape, where aesthetic is the source of satisfaction and well-being.

The Vision

The founders of Poiat Timo Mikkonen and Antti Rouhunkoski share a desire to build a brand with a strong mission for aesthetics and attention to detail. Their approach to the diverse range of design assignments is always to find a human scale and a special character for space or product. It is in the essence when finding the perfect solutions from the idea to the final touch. Beyond the creative aspect, each project is an opportunity to exchange, observe and discuss. Both the finished product and the design journey must give the impression of a sense of calm, trust, elegance and shared knowledge: the Poiat signature.
